 - i. Senior and will be graduating in December, majoring in CIS, president of BSG.
 - ii. Hulet: What can you bring to the team? Saint-Jour: Getting more people involved on campus. G. Wilson: what is one of the things you want to see change and why do you love CSU-Pueblo? Saint-Jour: Student involvement, wants to see more students getting involved in things that are happening on campus... making it more entertaining, the more friends one has the more fun you have. I love CSU-Pueblo because it's not that big, it's easy to make friends and easy to get around. Zarr: Do you have any ideas on how you would get students more involved? Saint-Jour: Like catching the big fish and figuring out who is well known on campus to get more students involved. B. Wilson: what is your definition of a certain leader? Saint-Jour: Someone who focuses on themselves, setting a good example for others so that people can follow a good example. Olay: how do you get the key people to go to those events? Jour: That would be the challenge, honestly don't know. Zarr: Saint-Jour has been actively participating already... went to city council with us, already signed up to go to Fort Collins, and decided to be on committees pro-bono and I think that that speaks volumes to who Saint-Jour is. G. Wilson: He has also volunteered to my project and hes not even a part of ASG yet and I think he would be a good asset. B. Wilson: Not only that, with BSG under his leadership it would be a good asset to add to our group.
