

AUGUST 2022

Learning & Innovative Teaching

Center for Teaching, Learning & Leadership

NEW NAME, NEW LOCATION, NEW LEADERSHIP!

The only constant is change and our Center has some exciting changes to share!

Under the guidance of Dr. Stuart Benkert, Dean of Undergraduate Studies and Student Success, the Center for Teaching & Learning added Leadership development to our professional services and to our center's name. Leadership development opportunities for faculty and staff will be shared soon!

We've changed locations to provide a centralized space for you to access our office and invite you to connect with us in LARC 206. You can schedule a time to meet or drop by for assistance with anything related to teaching and learning - such as methods and strategies, educational technologies, and building your course in Blackboard.

The CTLL is thrilled to announce that Dr. Karen Yescavage accepted the permanent position as Faculty Fellows Director. She brings three decades of experience at CSU Pueblo to leading the Faculty Fellows' efforts. Dr. Yescavage showcases one of her favorite pedagogical practices, experiential learning, where students learn the value of course concepts through direct application in this description of last summer's Pueblo Levee Mural Project.
