

Dear (Child's name):

I was just thinking about you today in (City) and thought I'd send you a special letter.

It's snowing here right now and I just got back from playing in the snow with Rudolph. We were playing hide and seek. If you are ever playing hide and seek in the snow with Rudolph all you have to do is yell out "COOKIES" as loud as you can. Rudolph gets so excited his nose begins to glow and you can find him hiding under the snow every time.

I thought I'd take this time to send you this letter to let you know how proud I am of you. When I told the elves how good you have been this year they all started dancing and singing, they were all so happy. They even said they were going to make your gift extra special this year.

I've been watching you and I know that you like playing with your friend (friend's name). (Something Personal).

Mrs. Claus is baking her yummy gingerbread cookies. The smell is making everyone hungry, even the reindeer. I think I heard Rudolph's belly grumble!

Please go to bed early on Christmas Eve...you know I won't come until you're fast asleep and (City) is one of the first stops on my list! I just love it there!

Love,

Santa Claus

P.S. Please don't forget to leave out some milk and cookies for me and some carrots for the Reindeer.
