Publication & Digital Reproduction Policy & Procedures

The CSU-Pueblo University Archives seeks to make its collections available in support of research and scholarship by members of the CSU-P community and others. However, CSU-P Archives users must respect copyrights and other legal rights held by other parties that may affect the use of materials in the collections. Therefore, the CSU-P Archives provides services on the following terms for purposes of supporting teaching, research, and other scholarship. This statement applies only if the use of materials is principally for research and scholarship. Uses that are principally for commercial purposes may be subject to separate agreement between the user and CSU-Pueblo Archives.

Reproduction of Materials from the CSU-Pueblo Archives

The CSU-P Archives offers various reprographic services upon request, including the provision of digital copies. The Archives has the discretion to make or not make the copies, and will do so only in a manner consistent with copyright law and any other obligations, and consistent with the conservation of the materials.

Reproductions are provided solely for the research use of the individual researcher. Researchers agree not to further disseminate copies to other institutions or individuals, but rather to refer said institutions or individuals to the CSU-Pueblo Archives for assistance.

Publication & Other Uses of Materials from CSU-P Archives

If you wish to use any CSU-Pueblo Archives materials (whole or in part) for publication in any form, including all of the uses below, you must obtain the specific written permission of the owner of the physical property (CSU-P Archives) and make a good faith effort to obtain permission from the holder of the copyright.

Following is a list of uses for which you will need to seek permission to publish:

- Public display in any form, electronic or hard copy.
- Publication in any form, whether modified or not.
- Use in television, video, or film.

You will not have to seek permission to publish if the purpose of your work falls under one of the following:

- Non-profit educational purposes (class papers, research, classroom use).
- For purposes such as criticism, comment, and news reporting.

Acknowledgment

The CSU-Pueblo Archives asks all researchers who use its collections to cite accurately and to acknowledge and give appropriate credit to the CSU-Pueblo Archives for supporting their research.
