2020

SPRING 2020 Convocation

January 6-10, Colorado State University-Pueblo

Connecting the Pieces.

From the President

Campus Community,

Welcome to the spring 2020 semester.

I hope all of you enjoyed your time away and are feeling a renewed sense of energy.

This semester, we will work together to connect a number of pieces allowing us to reach three goals: (1) build enrollment by tapping into new student markets, (2) develop enhanced learning and support systems allowing more students to pursue their dreams, and (3) keep our focus on improving employee satisfaction.

We will increase our marketing efforts, develop an enhanced advising model and work-based financial aid program, and invest more time and resources into our professional development.

Each month is filled with a number of academic, artistic, athletic, and community events all mapped to our mission of developing students so they are able to navigate work and life in a rapidly changing world.

Our semester will go quickly. Let's work together to serve our students and each other.

Best wishes,

Together on a Mission

Colleagues,

With Vision 2028, Colorado State University-Pueblo established a set of values as a Hispanic Serving institution dedicated to interdisciplinary learning and entrepreneurship. Through this dedication, CSU-Pueblo will elevate its people and community, create educational opportunities, foster unique collaborations, and support inclusion, access, and affordability as a gateway to the world. Our new mission reflects our desire to increase student success in a rapidly changing world by instilling resilience, agility and problem-solving abilities in our diverse student population. They not only have to master the technical skills associated with their field of study, but also successfully function within interdisciplinary teams, analyze information and seamlessly transfer their knowledge and expertise between different contexts. Moreover, students also need a robust educational basis that supports creativity, cultural agility, empathy and communication.

CSU-Pueblo has, with support from the Board of Governors, started working on initiatives to create an educational environment that can make this a reality. Most of these initiatives depend on the heavy involvement from faculty and academic professionals. These initiatives include experiential learning opportunities for students through a revised financial-aid model that allows students to have meaningful work experiences as early as their freshman year. A re-imagining of Capstone experiences for all disciplines complements these experiential learning experiences and provides opportunities for interdisciplinary collaborations. The redesign of general education creates an educational environment for students to develop skills, create knowledge, and participate in experiences that will instill resilience, work with complex problems, and transfer their knowledge and expertise to their next steps as graduates of CSU-Pueblo. The organizational structure of academic affairs needs to be supportive of this educational environment. An examination of the current structure has revealed opportunities to enhance our ability to meet our goals, including:

1. Support the implementation of Vision 2028 by creating an organizational structure to facilitate collaborations and entrepreneurial activities among academic units at CSU-Pueblo in the areas of Health, Education, and STEM.
2. Enhance the marketability of programs in the Health, Education & STEM Areas by increasing the visibility and recognition of these areas. These are signature programs that already have a strong presence at CSU-Pueblo and, with increased exposure, can have a significant impact on the societal and economic fabric of the region.
3. Identify and capitalize on opportunities in academic areas, including collaborative and/or online degrees in the STEM/Health/Education areas.
4. Position ourselves with a clear vision for a Technology Building renovation plan to strengthen the STEM and education areas.

5. Identify opportunities for reducing the administrative burden in the academic colleges.

Starting in summer 2019 and over the fall semester, I have been consulting with the academic deans, campus leadership and faculty. I have received valuable feedback on the restructuring as well as implementation of Vision 2028 through various faculty, department, and college meetings. Using this feedback, I have developed a draft restructuring plan. I have shared this plan with the President and Cabinet and discussed it with the faculty senate in December. I look forward to sharing this plan with you at the academic meeting during convocation.

Best Regards,
