Colorado State University-Pueblo’s Team Development Program by Outdoor Pursuits offers a challenging environment designed to promote cooperation and group problem-solving skills, as well as develop individual self-confidence. Programs are group-centered and vary in degrees of difficulty depending on each group’s specific needs and goals. Physical prowess is not necessary for participation; however, teamwork is essential.

Participants are asked to take emotional, mental, and physical challenges which utilize a wide range of the group’s resources. Our trained facilitators will design an experience based on your groups’ objectives and will provide positive support and encouragement as participants explore their individual and group abilities. As they cooperate to accomplish common goals, individuals discover the value of trust, shared responsibility, and mutual support.

The CSU-Pueblo Team Development Program has served a variety of clientele, such as Public and Private Schools, Church Groups, Local Business and Corporate Groups, Community Youth Groups, and Birthday Parties.
